Lyman's Dandelion Bitters.
The bitter extract of dandelion has been used by physicians for centuries. The Arabian medical writers speak of the efficacy in diseases of the LIVER, KIDNEYS and BOWELS, and to this day there is no standard work on medicine in which it is not strongly recommended for the purification of the blood, for the cleansing of the bile and removes from the body that sluggishness and weariness of life so constantly felt in connection with diseases of the liver. Rightfully prepared as in the case of LYMAN'S DANDELION BITTERS,
this extract is found to be superior to all other bitters as a cure of congestion of the LIVER, CONSTIPATION and the HEART-BURN, HEADACHE and NAUSEA which makes life itself a burden.

—THE—
New Hub Range
FOR 1883.

COMBINES MORE IMPROVEMENTS,
And Conveniences,
than all its competitors. The introduction of the New Hub in the city has caused our competitors to make over their goods, and in doing so their aim has been to get a stove "as good as the New Hub," but as yet they have all failed, and without The Patent Reflex Grate,
they cannot get a stove that will compare with the Hub. We have Sold Over 500 of These Ranges
within three years and we refer to them for proof that the New Hub is the easiest range to manage; the best baker, the most durable and the prettiest range in the market. To prove the durability of the Reflex grate, we will simply say that we have not in three years replaced or repaired one dozen grates out of the hundreds that we have sold. During the Summer season the New Hub has been nearly made over. Every point which experience has proved to need strength, has been thoroughly strengthened, and we have to-day a range that is twenty-five per cent. ahead of any other in New England.
Compare it with anything in the city, even the latest, and decide for yourself. We refund money for every range that proves unsatisfactory after a fair trial.

STATE NEWS.

Cumberland.

The corpse of a man that had been washed ashore at Ocean View, Va., is supposed to be that of James Boyd, of Portland, who as previously telegraphed, either jumped or fell overboard from the brig Henderson on Thursday, last, when off Thimble light in Chesapeake Bay. Boyd was second mate of the vessel, and shipped from Norfolk to Demarara.

The Press says that while the Emmets and Portlands were playing base ball on the Western Promenade, at Portland, Monday, a bat slipped from one of the batmen's hands, striking C. A. Flaherty, manager of the Emmets, in the jaw. He was carried to the Maine General Hospital where medical treatment was procured. It was found that half of his upper teeth had been driven down into the lower jaw, and his lip badly cut. Whether he received a concussion of the brain cannot be told until to-day.

Franklin.

There is a family in Chesterville, consisting of six persons, whose united ages are 420 years, and at another home in the same town are found representatives of four generations, the youngest being a great-granddaughter two months old, and the first female born there in over half a century. Are not these rare cases?

Kennebec.

The Mail learns that two Waterville men went over to Winslow and had a pugilistic encounter according to the rules of the ring. The Mail also says rowdyism and dissipation are on the increase in Waterville.

Lincoln.

A house and ell owned by Mrs. Emma D. Prock, three miles from Waldoboro, burned Monday night. Most of the contents were saved. Loss, $700; insurance, $400.

It is stated that the whole of the eastern side of Monhegan rocks like a boat. It has grown so alarming of late that numbers of the families have removed to the opposite side of the island. The motion is experienced in storms, and extends, as it seems, to the very depths of the island. An old fisherman was of the opinion that some great convulsion of nature would take place that would result in sinking that portion of the island.

Oxford.

At Canton, Tuesday, frost caused damage to sweet corn and vines, on the lowlands.

Sagadahoc.

Mrs. Mary Bearce, an old lady living in Bath, on Washington near Lemont street, celebrated her 90th birthday with a party, last Monday. Some forty friends were there to give congratulations, fifteen of whom were over 80 years olds. It was a nice gathering.

Mr. Joseph G. Torrey, who started the Maine Gazette, the first newspaper printed in Bath, in December, 1820, died in Boston Highlands last Friday, in the eighty-sixth year of his age. He learned the printer's trade in the office of the Boston Sentinel, and was induced to come to Bath mainly through the efforts of Mr. George Marston, who secured for him, in advance, four hundred subscribers for the Gazette. He published the paper eight or ten years and then sold it, and soon after removed to Roxbury, Mass., where he has since resided. He has always had a lively interest in Bath and its affairs, keeping up a frequent and friendly correspondence with his old-time rival, our venerable fellow citizen, Mr. Thomas Eaton. Mr. Torrey came to Bath's centennial anniversary.

Washington.

Wm. C. Moodie, of Calais, who was sentenced at the last October term of the Supreme Judicial Court to three years in State prison, for assault upon his wife, has been granted a pardon by the Governor and Council.

C. A. McCullough & Tait, of Calais, returned from Providence, R. I., Thursday morning, where he signed a contract with Lockwood, Greene & Co., mill engineers, for the castings for a large cotton mill in Aurora, Ill. This is the fourth cotton mill contract this firm has taken. The contract was secured in company with Massachusetts foundry men.

The great run of herring in Passamaquoddy Bay, continues. The sardine factories get all the fish they want at a nominal price, and cannot take all that is offered.

York.

The Times says, Willie Rodgers, of Biddeford, Monday, slipped from the logs on which he was playing, into the river, and would have been drowned, but for Charles F. Averill.

The building of Bryant & Jordan, Maine street, Saco, was damaged $500 by fire, Tuesday. Phineas Greely's variety store was damaged $700.

MISS COUZINS' EXPERIENCE.

GRAPHIC STORY OF THE TORNADO AT ROCHESTER, MINN.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 27, 1883. The anxiety of the family of Miss Phoebe W. Couzins, the well known woman rights' lecturer, was relieved at noon, Monday, when a letter from her was found at the postoffice announcing her safety, and at the same time explaining why no information had previously been received of her whereabouts. She was not at Rochester, Minn., on Tuesday last when the town was destroyed by a tornado, nor in the track of the storm, but was between Rochester and Kasson, fortunately out of the track of the storm. Telegraph lines were down, and she could not announce her safety by that medium, and, as she was not on a main line of railroad, the letter which she at once mailed, was some time in coming. Immediately after the tornado had passed Miss Couzins visited the stricken town, and her letter gives an account of the horrors she witnessed. "Mrs. —— and I," writes Miss Couzins, "drove down to Rochester, a distance of 17 miles, and witnessed such a sight as we hope never to look upon again. The country for many miles is laid waste; farmers' crops and barns and improvements are strewn in every direction, but the loss of life is not so great as at Rochester, although the few that are killed and wounded in the country are most horribly mangled. The wife of one farmer, who was in the field, started for the house, but failed to reach it. She ran for a stake in the field, but was blown almost to pieces. The stake was driven almost through her body, and her limbs are torn off and have not yet been found.

One young woman is so fearfully hurt with ashes ground into her flesh that she cannot live. A boy had his spine filled with nails, so that he will die of lockjaw, but the most frightful scene of all was at Rochester. The scene in the north part of the city, where stood three hundred houses and a large number of trees, beggars description. Not a dwelling or a tree remains. The debris is piled up in huge masses or scattered over the plain. Cattle, horses and pigs lie about dead, in all manner of attitudes. One cow we saw, had her head completely blown from the body. A horse tied to a tree was blown on his knees, and his eyes in death bespoke the terror which possessed him. Hon. James McCall, of Winona, was killed near his elevator. He had started for the house across the way, but had evidently been caught in the air and whipped on the earth, for the grass was swept clean where he was found, and every bone in his body was broken. A long train of grain cars was thrown from the track, and some of the men pitched into the river beyond. Among the trees bordering on the bed of the river all sorts of garments were flying from the limbs, and while we were there, the bodies of a woman and a baby were found.

The railroad depot, the locomotive and carriage factory and harvester works are complete wrecks, though not so completely blown to atoms as the north part of the town. In the streets on the other side of the depot the trees are piled up in every direction, while tin roofs and towers of churches, cornices, brick chimneys and debris of all kinds present a most fearful picture. That hundreds were not killed is marvelous, but the time being seven in the evening and the storm seen by everyone, men had gone home to their families, and everyone had taken refuge in their cellars. All who were mangled or killed were those who had no cellars to go into. In almost every instance, everyone saved was in the cellar. The most heartrending sight was the big hall, with houseless and homeless and killed and wounded. Near the door of the hall, improvised as a hospital, lay five children of one family, all dreadfully hurt, whose parents had been killed. A sixth child, the baby, never has been found. This sight moved the stout-est hearted to tears. Over forty were in here; men, women and children, in a most pitible condition. One cunning baby, which no one claimed, with one of its eyes put out, gazed with one eye at every person who passed with the most intelligent, questioning look. Twenty bodies were buried yesterday. We drove out to the cemetery and saw the deep, wide trenches prepared, but did not stay for the interment. The excitement is intense throughout the country. Work is not thought of or done. I could write you pages of what I saw and heard, but am tired and worn out from the continued strain of nerve and body."

THE ART OF SWIMMING

AS DEMONSTRATED BY THE BECKWITHS OF THE PEMBERTON.

The appearance of the world renowned English swimmers, Miss Agnes Beckwith and her brother Willie, at the Hotel Pemberton, Monday afternoon and evening, says the Boston Herald, appears to have revived the interest which was given such an impetus at that favorite resort by the lamented Webb, early in the season. To say that the Beckwiths are expert swimmers but faintly expresses their natatorial accomplishments. Their exhibitions yester attracted some 5,000 people in the afternoon, and as many more in the evening, and on the whole proved most interesting entertainments. Both swimmers, although small in stature, are well built, and possessed of an endurance and science that are phenomenal. Willie, in his exhibitions during the day, showed marvellous speed, by the side and upper stroke, by which he defeated Webb in two contests at the Royal Aquarium and the Lambeth baths, London, early last spring. Although Beckwith may not equal Webb's standard of excellence in point of grace, yet the latter was far behind the former in fancy movements and tricks in the water. The exhibition proved the first real opportunity that Miss Agnes Beckwith has had in this locality of displaying those powers as a swimmer which have made her famous all over Europe. She, like her brother, appeared in white tights and green silk bodice, which with her innocent and childish face, and long, waving blonde hair, gave her the appearance of a veritable mermaid while immersed in the water. She has a large chest, with wonderful lung power, and is very buoyant. She appeared perfectly at home in the water, and excited the admiration of all, by swimming backward, face downward and upward, using her hands—well under water—as propellers. She accomplished the difficult feat of swimming on her back backward, using her legs as paddles, and carrying a sunshade to keep the sun out of her eyes and a fan to keep cool. She accomplished the still more difficult feat of swimming with hands and legs firmly tied, using both extremities, thus bound together, as paddles, but yet in such a way as to proceed in whichever direction she pleased. Willie's feats embraced the drinking of a bottle of milk many feet under water; diving with a cigar, which he kept lighted while taking a long swim under water, and which he seemed to enjoy on reappearing on the surface; imitating a porpoise; perpetual motion, or revolving under water; and a score of continuous back somersaults, or cart wheels. Miss Beckwith gave a graceful waltz to the slow music of the band. The fall of "the awful dudes" overboard, by brother and sister, was exceedingly interesting and laughable, while that feature illustrating the method of saving a person from drowning was very instructive to all present who cared to know how to proceed in such an exigency.

The exhibition comprises 17 feats. The Beckwiths were in the water during each exhibition about half an hour. The water was quite cool but they did not seem to mind it, although they said it was colder than usual for them. Mr. Beckwith, in conversation with the writer, explained the principles he persued in swimming for speed, and claimed that his method was essential for that purpose. He claimed that by carrying his body well down in the water he was able to keep his lower extremities well out. The policy of doing this could be readily understood, as there was not as much obstruction to be met with as would be the case if he allowed his legs to drop or hang downward. He said if a man was without legs he would float, a fact that is illustrated by the greater buoyancy possessed by one-legged men in the water over two-legged men. It was the weight of the legs that usually tired out and drowned people, a fact that would be easily understood and appreciated when it was known that all drowning people sink feet foremost. He said that no man could swim with the high rate of speed he did, and at the same time keep up a graceful movement. These were two different elements, and could not be combined. He said, further, that, although his style for speed might look somewhat labored, yet it was an easy stroke, such as allowed him on the recover ample time for respiration and the catching of breath. He seemed to take a great interest in the swimming of Riley of Newport, with whom he is matched to race two miles off the Pemberton during the week for $500. He has never seen Riley in the water, and his queries yesterday relative to the Newporter's powers showed that he recognized that he had an important contract on hand. He said, however, that he felt confident of winning, but proposed to take every precaution to be in good trim for the contest. With this purpose in view, he will undergo a course of severe training and dieting during the next few days.

Miss Beckwith, who appears to be a very cultured little lady of 18, seemed to have great confidence in the ability of her brother, and expressed the opinion that, although the contest might be sharp, yet Riley would get left. She said she would like to see the ladies of this country take a more active interest in the art, in which she claimed her sex could become as proficient as men.

WHY CIGARETTES ARE INJURIOUS.

THE SCIENTIFIC REASONING OF AN INVETERATE CIGARETTE SMOKER.

A Tribune reporter, wishing to get some accurate information regarding the much disputed question of the injurious effects of cigarette smoking, sought information on the subject from a well known physician, who has made diseases of the lungs and air passages his special study. "Is cigarette smoking injurious?" the physician repeated thoughtfully, as he blew a wreath of blue smoke from his lungs in a dreamy manner; "yes; all smoking is injurious, as far as that goes, and in my opinion cigarette smoking more especially so, and for the following reason." Pausing at this point to light a fresh cigarette, he continued: "You see, when a man gets to smoking cigarettes he smokes them where he could not light a cigar or pipe; he smokes, in fact, at all times and seasons, and so, as a rule, the cigarette smoker consumes more tobacco really than the man who devotes himself to coloring a meerschaum or cripples his income by indulging in good cigars."

"Then there is one thing true of the cigarette-smoker which the pipe-smoker avoids, and that is the inhalation of smoke. More than 90 per cent of the men who smoke cigarettes habitually inhale the smoke, and there is where the great harm and peril to the smoker lie." Here the doctor blew a cloud of thin smoke from the deepest recesses of his lungs and went on: "At first this constant contact of an acrid, irritating smoke, loaded with minute particles of carbon—the burnt paper—causes simply irritation and chronic congestion of the air passages, but sooner or later we get permanent organic change and disease. The particles of carbon will in time form deposits in the little air cells, which in turn become starting points for disease, and gradually you get a form of lung trouble which is closely analogous to that form of consumption known as 'Coal Miners' Phthisis.' Then again the throat and upper air passages suffer greatly in this kind of smoking, the trachea having very many absorbing glands, which take up the nicotine and carry it into the circulation when smoke is inhaled. Why," said the doctor, warming with his subject, "when I smoke my first cigarette before breakfast, it often makes me so drunk I can hardly dress, because at that time the glands are particularly active and the stomach is empty.

"Yes, cigarette smoking is on the increase and is comparatively new in the United States. Fifteen years ago no American cigarettes were manufactured and few, except Cubans, Spaniards and foreigners generally, used tobacco in this form."

"Why do not Cubans and Spaniards get lung diseases from smoking cigarettes?"

"For one special reason disease is less frequent among the Southern smokers than in this country, and that is the difference of climate. Here we are continually fighting against a climate which, owing to its constant and severe changes, is peculiarly trying to the lungs, and if you add another source of irritation, it's only natural that so sensitive and delicate a structure should give out sooner or later.

"Moderation in cigarette smoking? There is no such thing. If a man smokes cigarettes at all, sooner or later he will smoke almost incessantly and inhale every whiff he draws, and so one can make the general rule with perfect safety that cigarette smoking is by far the most injurious form of smoking, and that no one can indulge in it to any great extent without falling into dangerous excess; and more's the pity, the practice is steadily on the increase."

Whig & Courier.

BOUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.

C. A. BOUTELLE, EDITOR.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle & Burr, and communications intended for publication should be addressed: "Editor of Whig and Courier."

THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1883.

Senator Warner Miller, of New York, is an enthusiastic Blaine man.

It is not improbable that the Pennsylvania Legislature will adjourn this week. It will if it respects public sentiment.

The Republican State conventions, both in Massachusetts and New York, are called on the second anniversary of President Garfield's death, Sept. 19.

The German Republicans of Ohio who last year co-operated with the Democrats are rapidly coming back to their old party again.

Congressman Morrill, of Kansas, tells an interviewer that he is confident that the Republican party of the State will be solidly united in the next contest.

Mr. Jackson S. Schultz, of New York, and some of his neighbors have begun a war upon church bells, the ringing of which they declare to be a great nuisance.

The announcement having been made that Senator Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, is indifferent to a re-election, the Aiken Recorder says: "This is all bosh and nonsense."

The late Judge Black is said to have received the largest fee ever paid to a lawyer for success in a suit. He defended the New Almaden Quicksilver Company, of California, in a suit in the United States Supreme Court, the opposing counsel being Reverdy Johnson, Charles O'Connor, and Judah P. Benjamin. His fee was said at the time to have been $250,000. This is believed to be an exaggeration.

There are intimations that the Ohio Democrats will force their candidate for Governor, Judge Hoadly, to withdraw. Possibly Gen. Durbin Ward's recent speech was made to place him in line for the nomination in such a contingency. The candidate is now ill and in his absence from the field the Democrats are indulging in pretty plain talk about his purchase of the nomination.

Does any one know what becomes of the old steel pens? Dresden has inaugurated a scheme by which she can make good use of them. The old pens are collected throughout the city and sold for the benefit of poor children, who otherwise would not have an opportunity for schooling. As these pens are made from the best steel, they may be again used in making watch-springs, fine knives, and even ink.

The alleged ancient manuscript of Deuteronomy, which the ingenious and enterprising Shapira wanted to sell to the British government for the comfortable sum of five million dollars, has been definitely discredited, experts of the highest eminence having declared it to be a forgery. This is bad for Mr. Shapira, whose reputation, as it is, is none of the best; but the fact that there should have been so much difference of opinion in regard to it suggests that the manufacture of ancient manuscripts is rich in possibilities.

Years ago when David Crockett was a member of Congress and had returned home at the close of the first session, several of his neighbors gathered about him one day and asked questions about Washington. "What time to they dine in the city?" asked one. "Common people, such as we have here, dine at 1. The big ones dine at 3, we Representatives at 4; the aristocracy and Senators at 5." "Well, when does the President fodder?" "Old Hickory?" exclaimed the Colonel; "well, he don't dine till next day."

It is the opinion of the Utica Herald (Rep.) that the call for the Democratic Convention was invented as a drag-net to catch gudgeons. "This is not a year in which anybody will care to help forward Democratic schemes, and the cry of corruption in Presidential elections and of support of Governor Cleveland will not win for its authors even the credit of ingenuity. Even Tammany Hall may require all the time between to day and the twenty-seventh of September to make up its mind whether to fall into the rear for union or to keep on fighting in the front."

The Post Office Department has selected as the color for the new four cent or double rate stamp a shade of green somewhat darker than that in which the present three cent stamp is printed. As the three cent stamp will be retired from circulation no errors are likely to arise from the similarity of color. The new stamp bears a profile likeness of Andrew Jackson and is quite handsome in design. The distribution to postmasters of the new two cent stamps will begin on September 1, and it is believed that everything will be in readiness for the change of letter postage on October 1.

When an Inter-Ocean reporter asked ex-Governor Oglesby in Chicago the other day about his candidacy for another term, that gentleman frankly said that if nominated he would accept with his usual modesty, and make Illinois a good Governor. "What about other candidates?" was asked. "Oh, there are a dozen other splendid fellows in Illinois who would make good candidates." "Wouldn't they make good Governors?" "I would make a good Governor, don't know about the other fellows,"—and he tore his button-hole free and walked away laughing all over.

Ex-Collector Canaday, of North Carolina, who is a candidate for sergeant-at-Arms, of the United States Senate, was in Washington Monday. He says that the prospects of defeating the North Carolina Democrats in the Presidential contest next year appear to be bright; that the Republicans and Liberals have an understanding, and that the dissensions which have plagued the Republicans in the past have been healed. The transfer of his political allegiance by ex-Governor Holden to the Democratic party, Colonel Canaday says, is generally regarded as "a Republican gain." He intimated that within the next few day the Democrats of North Carolina will be startled by the intelligence that several men who have been among the most able, skilful and popular leaders of the Democratic forces of the State have abandoned and repudiated the Democratic party and propose to work as zealously for its defeat hereafter as they have for its success in the past.

THE CAMPAIGN IN IOWA.

[N. Y. Tribune.]

The campaign in Iowa this year is noticeable chiefly because of the exhibition that Democracy is making of itself. It is proving, what has so often been proved before, that it is a party without a principle. This time the demonstration is accomplished by a coalition of Democrats with Greenbackers, on the spoils basis. Intelligent, thoughtful Democrats in Iowa, as elsewhere throughout the country, repudiate the vicious financial theories of the Greenback party. But this element in the Iowa Democracy has been sent to the rear. The element that is at the front and controls is perfectly willing to indorse anything that the Greenbackers may submit to them, provided the Greenbackers in return will help them capture the offices. It is a programme with a moral—he who runs may read the status of the parties that join in making this sort of a bargain. Of course it is not expected that the coalition will defeat the Republican State ticket. All that the Iowa Democracy hope to accomplish by it is to increase their strength in the Legislature. In districts entitled to two members they are running one of their own men and a Greenbacker. In districts entitled only to one member they have combined their forces upon a single candidate.

Such tactics cannot fail to disgust all voters who are opposed to the perpetuation of the spoils system. And hence it is not strange that the report comes from trustworthy sources that "the Republican party is becoming more consolidated every day, and the warmer the campaign grows the better it is for Republicans." The prominence given to the prohibition issue in this campaign has had a tendency to break up old party lines. But this coalition can be counted upon to repair the breaches in the Republican column. The disgust and indignation it will inspire are worth thousands of votes to the party that stands for a sound financial policy. Another thing that helps the Republican canvass is the mouth of Mr. Kinne, the Democratic nominee for Governor. He would appear to be the Hoadly of Iowa, for, according to the Burlington Hawkeye, "he ought to speak twice in every place, once to say what he wants to say, and again to explain what he meant." That is precisely what is the matter with Hoadly. They will go under together.

MR. SIMPSON'S DEFENSE.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier:—

I have read the defense in the last evening's Commercial of A. L. Simpson and so many of his partisan friends as he had authority to represent.

That they felt a defense or explanation was necessary is presumed, or he would not have made it. It contains just a kernal of the whole truth, enough to conceal or distract attention from the real question viz: That Mr. Simpson, with his partisan Aldermen and Republican Alderman from Ward Five are obstructionists—refusing to make the regular annual appropriations authorizing the assessment of taxes necessary for the current municipal expenses; not because they object to the appropriations in the Resolve twice passed by the Common Council and rejected by the Board of Aldermen, but because, as they have openly stated, "if they cannot have more appropriated they will defeat all appropriations."

Or, in other words, they say to their constituents, "We, the Democrats in the Board of Aldermen, with the Republican Alderman of Ward Five, are the City Council, and if we cannot have our own sweet will we will make a revolution, obstruct the wheels of municipal government, disorganize the affairs we are sworn to protect," and then raise the cowardly alarm by shouting, "The City Solicitor did it."

Mr. Simpson: The citizens want to know one thing—and they do not need a column and a half of idle talk for an answer—and that is, Why do you, not concur with the Common Council in passing the appropriations on which both boards have agreed (and the two boards have disagreed upon no appropriation except paving) instead of insisting that the lower board have no rights which you, under your oaths, feel bound to respect?

HENRY G. THOMPSON.

A MALICIOUS ATTACK.

The Portland Argus, with its customary fondness for falsehood and slander, having used its columns to attack the City Marshal of Augusta in an editorial based upon an "unqualifiedly false" statement, Mr. White has forwarded that paper an open letter of which the following is a copy:

AN OPEN LETTER.

AUGUSTA, Maine, Aug. 29th, 1883.

To the Editor of the Argus:

In the Argus of this day, there appears an editorial entitled "A Disgraced Cause," in which occurs this sentence: "The local papers of Augusta report that during the encampment of the militia the City Marshal of that city issued orders to the dealers in liquors thereabout to refrain from selling intoxicating liquors to uniformed members of the militia." The New Age, edited by ex-Gov. Plaisted, who resides in Bangor, did in its last issue make this charge, but no other paper published in this city has ever repeated it. I desire to inform you that the statement is absolutely and unqualifiedly false.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES H. WHITE,
City Marshal.

The notorious and profuse use of money in controlling the Democratic county nominations in Cincinnati, in the interest of the Hoadly, Bookwalter and McLean combination, has created much excitement in Ohio. The Capital, a Democratic journal at Columbus, bolts the head of the State ticket, and calls "a halt," after this earnest fashion: "We will not be paraded as the purchased chattel of John Wesley Bookwalter or George Hoadly. No convention of corrupt and purchasable delegates shall transfer its proprietary interest in our allegiance as a Democrat to the highest bidder. No trading millionaire in newspaper back offices in Cincinnati shall divide the spoils of the Ohio Democracy without our indignant protest being heard against the usurping act of the wretch who sells and the treason of the autocrat who purchased the franchises of a betrayed people." It declares the fundamental principle of the "new Democracy" to be that "the offices shall be knocked down to the highest bidder," and refuses to be included in the sale. Senator Pendleton did not hesitate to say that "McLean's money" secured the city delegates, and the sum required to carry eight wards is placed at $10,925—about $120 to each delegate. Keep the corruptionists out.

The Democratic candidates for Governor, both in Ohio and Iowa, would do well to remember that in politics, as in fishing, it is no good to carry bait in the mouth. "Too much talkee" is the general verdict.

HOE YOUR ROW

Young man. In planting your crops do not depend on relations or friends for help, as they will surely want a hand in at harvest time, and you will be likely to get little or no credit in the event of a big yield. Hoe your own row and hoe hard. There may not be much money in the business, but you are certain to win a fine reputation for industry and earnest effort.

Above all, keep well, young man. If you are whining with dyspepsia, blue with biliousness, or debilitated by a weak liver, the girls wont want you, society will shun you, and business men will overlook you, depend upon it. The use of that most excellent medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, will assure you comfort, strength and capacity for labor. Burdock Blood Bitters purify the circulation, tone the stomach, and build up the entire organism. They are not advertised to cure everything, they have their specialties like a good lawyer, doctor, or mechanic, and do their work well. Some of the testimonials received by us would convince the most skeptical of their efficiency and usefulness. Here is one J. M. Might, Syracuse, N. Y., writes "When I first commenced using Burdock Blood Bitters I was troubled with fluttering and palpitation of the heart. I felt weak and languid, with a numbness of the limbs, since using, my heart has not troubled me and the numbing sensation is all gone."

SPECIAL INHERITANCE.

Death is the special inheritance of no nation and no people. The dark angel crosses all thresholds and leaves behind a shadow. Homes in all climes and zones and latitudes are invaded alike. Against its coming, pride and power afford no protection, humility is no safeguard, and even virtue itself possesses no talismanic influences. It is natural, therefore, that the great life insurance companies should make the world their field. Wherever death claims victims, wherever fathers, husbands, brothers and sons are called away by the fatal summons, wherever wives are made widows and children orphans, there life insurance is needed.—[The Chronicle.

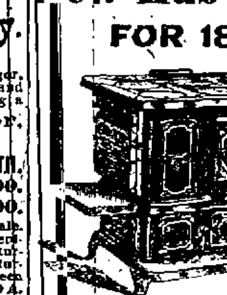
New Hub Range FOR 1883.



COMBINES MORE IMPROVEMENTS,

And Conveniences,

than all its competitors. The introduction of the New Hub in the city has caused our competitors to make over their goods, and in doing so their aim has been to get a stove "as good as the New Hub," but as yet they have all failed, and without

The Patent Reflex Grate,

they cannot get a stove that will compare with the Hub. We have

within three years and we refer to them for proof that the New Hub is the easiest range to manage; the best baker, the most durable and the prettiest range in the market. To prove the durability of the Reflex grate, we will simply say that we have not in three years replaced or repaired one dozen grates out of the hundreds that we have sold. During the Summer season the New Hub has been nearly made over. Every point which experience has proved to need strength, has been thoroughly strengthened, and we have to-day a range that is twenty-five per cent. ahead of any other in New England.

Compare it with anything in the city, even the latest, and decide for yourself. We refund money for every range that proves unsatisfactory after a fair trial.

BUTLER DENOUNCED.

An Address to the People.

BOSTON, Aug. 29. The Republican State Committee have issued an address to the people, making an opening of the campaign in this State. It says: "No one can overlook the significance of the result in Massachusetts this autumn upon the next Presidential election. At the same time it would be worse than idle to disguise the fact that the coming election is essentially a State campaign. To the people of Massachusetts, State issues of almost unprecedented gravity justly outweigh, at this time, all other considerations.

Massachusetts has been foully slandered for the personal and party reasons of her Supreme Executive Magistrate and his followers. Under the same auspices an administrative policy of spoils in the State and spoils and plunder in the city of Boston has been set on foot which is utterly at variance with all habits and traditions of Massachusetts." The address also urges the overthrow of the power responsible for such principles.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Accident to a Steamer.

BOSTON, Aug. 29. The steamer John Romer left her wharf this morning for a regular trip to Pemberton and Nantasket, carrying about 700 passengers. The trip was a very rough one. A strong northeasterly wind was blowing at the time. When off Long Island the Romer began to role heavily in the rough sea which rapidly increased as the steamer proceeded on her course. Just before crossing the strand between Nix's Mate and Long Island, a tremendous sea struck her on the port side and directly under the wheel, tearing away with a crash the after part of the paddle box and the entire stateroom adjoining.

A Panic Ensued

among the passengers on board and a great rush was made by some for life preservers, while others sought the boats. The officers of the Romer at once headed her for Gallop's Island, in the meantime blowing a signal of distress, which was answered by the steamer Rose Standish of the same line, which was on her way to Boston from Strawberry Hill and Pemberton, and after receiving about two hundred passengers she proceeded to Pemberton, where they landed safely, while the Romer being relieved of a part of her freight, continued to Nantasket. The cause of the accident is claimed to have been the result of the steamer listing to the port side, shutting in a heavy sea which had no chance of escape except by breaking through the timbers.

A HEAVY SURF.

Great Damage on the New Jersey Coast.

NEW YORK. Aug. 29. A remarkably heavy surf is reported to-day all along the New Jersey coast. The railroad between here and Long Branch has been washed out in many places and covered with loose sand in others to a considerable depth. Travel is delayed several hours. A despatch from Atlantic City places the damage there at $75,000.

Another Despatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 29. The beach is a mass of debris, bath houses, restaurants, photograph galleries and stores with dwellings attached, which were built so far from the surf that it was thought no sea could reach them, have been undermined and carried bodily into the ocean and beaten by the waves into fragments. Two hours after the high water to-night the tide had fallen but little and great anxiety is felt about the next high water as the wind from the northeast is increasing in force and should it continue until high water to-morrow, the damage will be more than double than that of to-day.

The surf was by far the heaviest ever seen here. A branch of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad along the beach front from this place to South Atlantic City was badly washed and passengers who took the late train to this place were compelled to abandon the train and walk a distance of five and a half miles. The railroad tracks between here and Absecom, except the West Jersey, are submerged, and will undoubtedly sustain much damage.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Celebration at Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 29. The city this morning presented a more lively appearance than yesterday, at least ten thousand strangers being in town. At ten o'clock the Boston train brought several companies. The centre of interest, however, was the Concord depot. As Governor Hale and staff arrived on the 1.10 train at least two thousand people were gathered in the vicinity of the depot, and Gov. Hale's appearance was greeted with hearty cheers. Barouches were in waiting and the visitors were escorted to the Rockingham House.

At 11.30 the grand procession formed, embracing the visiting fire companies, military organizations and invited guests, and the line of march was taken up through the principal streets, thence to Pierce's Island where a clam bake was partaken of. The sham battle takes place at Fort Washington this afternoon and a grand prize concert occurs in the evening

BERRIES. The present has been about an average berry season. Raspberries were very bountiful and the only trouble was to find pickers to gather them. The dry weather effected the blueberries and the crop has not been large, although in some sections fairly numerous. Blackberries are now coming in and are as abundant as usual.

RAFTING AT PENOBSCOT BOOM. The work of rafting at the Penobscot boom is drawing to a close for the season. One crew has already been discharged but there are still about two hundred and fifty men busily employed. There remains about 12,000,000 to be rafted and it is anticipated the work will be completed next week.

A BUSY ESTABLISHMENT. The boot and shoe factory of Parker & Peakes, on Exchange street, is a scene of general activity. The entertainment at the Opera House last evening was greatly marred by the continual noise in the gallery. One man was determined to carry on conversation with the actors, and this coupled with the annoyance experienced by a number of people in the orchestra chairs by the performance of three young unknown dudes who made a complete exhibition of their utter lack of all sense of decency, made it rather difficult to enjoy the excellent performance.

BREWER'S STEAM FIRE ENGINE. The new steamer for the Brewer Fire Department arrived in the city yesterday over the Maine Central Railroad. It is from the Button Manufacturing Company, of Waterford, New York, and cost $3,350. An ordinary hose carriage accompanies it. The new machine has all of the modern improvements and is guaranteed to get up steam in five minutes. It is named the Excelsior. There will probably be an exhibition of its powers to-day. For the present, at least, the town will hire horses to draw the steamer to all fires.

A COLLISION ON THE ROAD. Monday as Mr. C. W. Kirkpatrick, pension examiner, was driving down a hill in Stillwater he heard some one shout "stop" and he brought his horse to a stand still to learn the cause of this command, when a team came crashing into him from behind and a general smashup followed. Fortunately Mr. Kirkpatrick struck on his feet and thus escaped injury, but the driver of the rear team, whose name is Sutton, did not fare so well. He fell upon his head, which was quite badly cut and bled profusely. Just what be shouted "stop" for is not known. The carriages were wrecked.

THE PISCATAQUIS RAILROAD. The Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad is enjoying a very good passenger traffic during the present season. Owing to the decrease in hotel accommodations at Moosehead Lake the travel to that locality has fallen off somewhat, but there is a notable increase of pleasure seekers and sportsmen bound for Katahdin Iron Works and Monson. There is also a large amount of merchandise to be transported and each day the freight trains are of considerable length. Piscataquis county is a section blessed with manifold natural resources and the future of the road, especially when completed to the Lake, is promising in a high degree.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE GULF. Mr. Joab W. Palmer yesterday left for the Gulf, above Katahdin Iron Works, to arrange for improvements which will facilitate the driving of logs down the wild gorge through which the west branch of Pleasant river passes. It will be remembered that Mr. Palmer has already expended a large sum in blasting the ledge and making the stream navigable, so that the logs have been able to pass through. A crew of men will shortly be put on and the stream will be further widened in several places. It is Mr. Palmer's intention next winter to make another extensive lumbering operation in that vicinity. The private telephone line constructed at the Gulf has proved of great assistance during the driving season and has paid its cost many times over.

A SAD FATE. The drowning of young Seymour, while on his way from Bar Harbor to Seal Harbor, an account of which appeared in the WHIG Tuesday, causes a general feeling of sadness in that vicinity. We are informed that the young man knew nothing about the management of a sail boat and his friends tried to get him to abandon the trip, but he seemed to think that he would get along all right and started off alone. He reached Bar Harbor without any trouble, but has never been seen since leaving that place for the return trip. The oars were first found when a search was instigated by his friends and later the boat was picked up out at sea. People on Cranberry Island heard some one shouting during Sunday night but thought it must be some sailor and paid no attention to it. The sad fate of this young man should be a warning to those venturesome persons who think that any one can sail a boat or use a gun.

DROWNING FATALITIES.

Henry W. Pomroy, of Bangor, and George Pendleton, of Islesboro, Drowned Yesterday.

Henry W. Pomroy, a cooper, living on Main street, over Nealey's shoe store, was drowned late yesterday afternoon in the Penobscot river, this side of Winterport. He and another man were in a small fishing smack and while tacking, the boom struck Pomroy and knocked him overboard. At last reports his body had not been recovered. He leaves a wife and several grown up children.

The steamer May Field arrived in port yesterday and early last evening George Pendleton, the steward of the steamer, while passing along the guard of the Cimbria with a rope to assist in dropping the May Field to the stern of the other steamer, in some way fell over into the water and sank. He failed to rise near enough to the surface to be rescued alive and it was only after an hour's time, and then with the assistance of grapples, that the body was obtained. Pendleton was thirty-five years of age, lived in Islesboro and has a wife and three children. He was a very faithful fellow and has been connected with the May Field for many years.

AMUSEMENTS.

Jane Eyre.

Charlotte Thompson, at all times a great favorite in this city, scored another marked success last evening in her personation of the title role of the drama "Jane Eyre." This is, we believe, Miss Thompson's third appearance in this play on a Bangor stage, and at no time has it received so smooth and thoroughly pleasing rendition in all its important parts as was given last evening. Several new features were introduced, which added considerably to the interest of the piece. Miss Thompson was, of course, all that could be desired in her part and Mr. George Learock was by far the best "Lord Rochester" ever seen here. Mr. Wooderson made a strong hit and received a cordial greeting from his friends here. The other parts were well sustained. There was a very large and highly pleased audience in attendance.

This evening Miss Thompson will appear as the "Princess Ekelka" in the new drama, "The Romanoff," and she will probably be greeted with another large house. At the presentation of this drama in Portland on Tuesday, Miss [illegible]

A Large Turnout of Veterans

Dover and Foxcroft in Holiday Attire.

Reunion of the Old Sixth Maine and Grand Banquet in Central Hall Enlivened with Thrilling Speeches.

Opening of the Grand Army Muster at Camp Hiram Burnham in Foxcroft.

Ten G. A. R. Posts Participating in Camp Life in the Beautiful Valley of the Piscataquis.

At an early hour, yesterday morning, the comrades of B. H. Beale Post, No. 12, G. A. R., met at Grand Army Hall and, under command of Col. C. V. Crossman, marched to the Maine Central depot, escorted by the Drum Corps, enroute to Dover and Foxcroft to participate in the Muster to be held by the Northern Division, G. A. R. About one hundred members of the Bangor Post participated in the trip and there was a large representation of the Drum Corps, the young lads entering into the spirit of the occasion with great zest and looking forward to their first muster with high anticipations. A detachment of Daniel Chaplin Camp, Sons of Veterans, also joined the party.

ON THE TRAIN

were met numerous members of the old Sixth Regiment who were enroute to Dover to hold their annual reunion, and also prominent citizens of Bangor who had received invitations to attend both the reunion of the Sixth and the muster of the Grand Army Posts. At Oldtown there joined the party a large delegation of veterans of the old Sixth who had come on the night train from Washington county. This Regiment was composed of two battalions, one rendezvoused at Bangor and the other at Eastport. The members are therefore quite scattered throughout Eastern and Northern Maine. The reunion last year took place at Calais. Additions were made to the passengers at every station and the extra cars put on failed to accommodate fully the large turnout. At Milo the Grand Army Post located there boarded the train and continued to Dover. Upon reaching the a great throng was found ready to extend hospitable greetings. The local Grand Army Post and Sons of Veteran Camp were present with full ranks and accompanied by two efficient bands of music. After leaving the train the companies formed in line ready for marching. The old Sixth rendezvoused in the gents' waiting room at the station and some time was devoted to the shaking of hands by comrades who in numerous instances had not met since the separation immediately following the war. The invited guests were met by citizens in carriages and driven to the place of meeting. Dover and Foxcroft are two of the prettiest and most thriving villages that gem the surface of the State of Maine and only a brief time was required to impress one with the beauty of the general surroundings and also the excellent characteristics of the hospitable people dwelling there.

THE COMPANIES MARCHED

from the station in two divisions. The first was headed by Dyer's Band and consisted of Douty Post, of Dover and Foxcroft, B. H. Beale Post, of Bangor, Daniel Chaplin Camp, of Bangor, and J. S. Sampson Post of Milo. The second division was headed by Taylor's Band and consisted of the Lowell Camp, of Dover and Foxcroft, and the Sixth Maine Veterans. The first division marched through the streets of the two villages and halted at the Piscataquis Central Park in Foxcroft, where tents were already pitched, and in a brief time after breaking ranks they were established in camp life. The second division marched from the station direct to Central Hall and in the basement of the edifice some time was devoted to social chatting among the members of the Sixth.

AT CAMP HIRAM BURNHAM.

The grounds on which the Grand Army boys are encamped is distant a half mile from the centre of the two places. The location is a charming one and with its eighty-eight tents and everything bustling with life and activity the scene is an enlivening one and recalls the stirring scenes of earlier days when camp life was a reality indeed. There are ten Grand Army Posts in the encampment, as follows: B. H. Beale Post, of Bangor, J. S. Sampson Post, of Milo, Douty Post, of Dover and Foxcroft, Knowles Post, of Corinna, Washburn Post, of Abbot, Monson Post, of Monson, H. S. Safford Post, of Dexter, Richardson Post, of Garland, Hill Post, of Bucksport, and Daniel White Post, of Kenduskeag. The camp has been named Camp Hiram Burnham in honor of the brave Hiram Burnham, who was Colonel of the Sixth Maine Regiment, being afterwards promoted to the rank of General, and was killed in the battle of Chaplin's Bluff on James river.

THE BANQUET.

Shortly after twelve the Sixth Maine veterans, with lady friends and invited guests, seated themselves to the banquet. Six tables extended the length of the hall and they were loaded down with good things, the spread being fit for a king and proving that the ladies of the twin villages of Dover and Foxcroft are rarely equalled and never excelled in the culinary art. Central Hall is one of the handsomest and most commodious halls to be found outside of the larger cities and with the holiday attire in which it was arrayed on this occasion the scene was extremely inviting. Suspended in front of the stage in prominent letters was the word "Welcome" with the figures 1861 on the left and 1883 on the right. Along the gallery front were numerous ornamental flags and also cards on which were printed in conspicuous letters the names of eighteen battles in which the Regiment participated and also the names of numerous officers who fell in those fierce contests. In front of the hall near the stage the old colors of the Regiment occupied a conspicuous place. To the right and left of the proscenium front were large framed portraits of Garfield and Hancock and on the rear gallery front was one of Hiram Burnham, each of the three being surrounded with a floral wreath. Taylor's Band occupied seats on the stage and while the assemblage were securing positions around the heavily laden tables various National airs were played. After prayer by Rev. Sewall Brown of Corinth the viands [illegible]

Over three hundred were seated at the tables and the young ladies were very attentive waiters.

TOASTS.

The speeches then followed and were of an eloquent and enlivening nature. Mr. Wainwright Cushing officiated happily as toast master. Hon. A. M. Robinson, of Dover, was the first speaker and gave the following most fitting address:

Mr. President and Citizen Soldiers of the grand old 6th Maine:

I have been complimented with a request by your Committee to say briefly some words of greeting on this occasion of your Reunion here.

This place was fitly chosen for the occasion. Our contingent, the Company A of that famous regiment, was recruited here—the first here to volunteer for the war—and [illegible] has always been the pet regiment of our citizens.

In common with many others I had some hand in aiding this contingent and filling it, and had occasion to watch its progress during the war with the solicitude of a parent and the neighbor of many parents. You will, perhaps remember that I met you at your several halting places in this State and subsequently at Lunenburgh, Virginia, where I found you brigaded and under the command of a soldier, who will fill a wide space in the history of the war—General Hancock.

I remember your return with broken ranks, war worn and decimated. I have turned often since to look at your old battle flag in the rotunda of the capitol, and have seen only th[e] , a staff and a shread.

The Union, the Constitution and the Law. This was your battle cry and the sign by which you conquered amid this storm of fire and blood. The Union was preserved, the Constitution, with slavery eliminated, maintained, the Laws enforced.

The vexed question of the right of secession under the Constitution, which had been a disturbing element of heated controversy since the formation of the government, finally settled by the bayonet, an arbiter from whose decree there is no appeal.

In consummating these great events you, gentlemen, bore an honorable and patriotic share, for you was of the army of Potomac, an army whose brilliant achievements will be conspicuous on the pages of history in all future time.

As citizens of a common country, you may congratulate yourselves, that the defeated party to this gigantic conflict, citizens of a common country as well, are coming to realize and to admit that defeat for them was better than victory. This fraternizing of the blue and the gray all along the old line of conflict is a significant outgrowth of that sentiment.

The industries too so rapidly developing in the late confederate States stimulated by necessity and free labor, point unerringly in the same direction. The forge, the spindle, the waterwheel; these are the greatest conservative factors in the body politic—the strongest guarantees of peace and law and order. And so it is gentlemen that you, the survivors may proudly claim a united country of United States as the fruit of patriotic sacrifices in which you bore your full share.

And the silent one's—they who answered no man to the morning call or heard the music of reveille. Dead—but not missing. Present—even here and now in tender memory is

"The sound of the voice that is silent,
The touch of the hand that is still."

The young, the brave, the beautiful; honor to their memory.

Mr President and veterans of the gallant 6th Maine, in behalf of our citizens here, in behalf of the ladies here, who more than two decades ago waived a parting adieu to the contingent moving hence to the front and who met so often together during the troubled years that followed to devise ways and means to minister to the comfort of your sick and wounded in the hospitals, the same ones who have adorned and beautified this hall and spread these bountiful tables for your reception and who are here in force to greet you as veterans.

In behalf of your comrades resident here, whose guests you are and will continue to be while here, I have the honor to extend to you a warm, hearty and generous welcome.

Col. A. B. Sumner, in behalf of the Regiment, responded to the address of Mr. Robinson and tendered their sincere thanks for the very kindly welcome extended. He exhibited to the boys the remnants of that grand old flag which they used to carry. In closing he said comrades we are here from all parts of the State, from the fringe of the forest and from the border of the sea, and let us so conduct ourselves as to show that having been good soldiers we are better able to be good citizens.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, on being called upon to respond to the toast "Our United Republic," expressed his gratification at being present. The speaker alluded to how difficult it is to realize what our country really is. The poet says, "Distance lends enchantment to the view." We speak of our country as we breathe the pure air from these hills and drink water from the gushing springs. I once thought I loved it with a patriotic heart, but upon returning after a visit to foreign lands I knew I loved it. We ought to love it and be willing to defend it with our lives. We celebrate our national anniversary with bonfires. The broad principles of liberty upon which our country was founded opens possibilities to the humblest citizen. They builded even better than they knew. We owe much to the fathers, but we owe as much to those who preserved our country. And from the most humble to those who lead, I cherish a high regard for all who assisted in the preservation of this fair land. Secured by patriotic hands and saved by patriotic hands, we may believe this glorious republic shall float onward and last forever, going down into the stillness of the ages, a monument of political freedom, with a happy and united people ever at its base.

"The Militia of Maine" was responded to by Col. J. B. Peakes. In opening he alluded humorously to his brief term of service of about a week in the Maine Militia and that during that time he had been principally drawing rations. He remarked that the Maine Militia is organized without any expectancy of war, but he had no doubt they would be as ready to march to the front should occasion require as were the Maine companies in the days of '61 to '65. As we meet at these reunions our numbers are dropping away and it behooves us to so live that we shall be ready when the final summons comes.

Hon. C. A. Boutelle was called on to respond to the sentiment "State of Maine: Its Record in the War." In opening, the speaker said the State of Maine needs no one to respond for her. The history of the country, preserved and rehabilitated, is luminous with emblems which speak for our glorious old State. When the war broke out Maine was without an organized militia, but had eighteen independent companies. It is to the everlasting honor of our patriotic State that when the Massachusetts troops were fired on in the streets of Baltimore and Governor Washburn telegraphed to the captains of these little companies the response was every man is subject to the Governor's order. Within five days after that message Maine had her first regiment in Portland and within a fortnight two regiments were organized. Our State on the northeast edge was far removed from the scene of strife, and yet no section of the loyal North responded in a more keeping measure. When we think that our people are an agricultural and pastoral people it is a marvel that one person out of every nine in our population, or one to every four and a half males in the Commonwealth should march to the front. The speaker said Maine did more than her [illegible] men, and the devotion and sacrifice of those who staid at home should be considered. By the men and women in our State who did not go to the front there were contributed sixteen millions of dollars. The speaker paid a tribute to the noble women who remained at home and also to the bravery of the old Sixth.

A. M. Robinson, Jr., Secretary of the Sixth Maine Veteran Association, read letters from Major General W. S. Hancock, Col. D. F. Harris, Sergt. B. R. J. Thaxter, Chas. B. McEntee, Hon. Geo. W. Ladd, Rev. Thomas N. Lord, Phillip Leidy, Rev. I. Newton Eitney, Lieut. Col. C. H. Chandler and Col. H. L. Mitchell. An eloquent letter from Senator Lebroke was read by Capt. Parsons.

Dr. E. F. Sanger then responded to the toast "Our Invited Guests." Allusion was made by him to the important position held by one of their guests, ex-Vice President Hamlin, during the Rebellion. The speaker referred to the labors of the ladies during the struggle and by none were their services more appreciated than by the Surgeons.

"Our Honored Dead" was responded to by Rev. Sewall Brown, of Corinth, who recalled the departure of the old Sixth for the front and gave reminiscences of that time, paying respectful tribute to those who never returned.

"The Glorious Flag of the Old Sixth" was the sentiment offered to Mr. H. H. Bowles, of Cherryfield, and he revived the memories of the veterans around him by picturing in graphic language several of the more prominent battles in which this regiment participated, exciting his comrades to a high pitch of enthusiasm by the vividness and eloquence of the portrayal.

"Our Loyal Women" was responded to in fitting and earnest remarks by Hon. T. J. Peaks. In behalf of the Sons of Veterans, Capt. Parsons spoke forcibly and well. Major John L. Pierce, of Machias, brought the speech making to a close, responding to the toast "Grand Army of the Republic."

OFF FOR THE CAMP.

At four o'clock the Sixth Maine Regiment were escorted to the park where the members of the G. A. R. are holding muster. A general review by department officers of the G. A. R. took place. Major W. Z. Clayton has been elected Commander for ensuing year and the next reunion will be held in Bangor.

THE PROGRAMME TO-DAY

embraces a review of the companies at 10 A. M. A business meeting of the Sixth Maine will be held at 9 A. M., when the annual election of officers will take place. The companies will break ranks about 2 M. and depart for home.

HAY FEVER.

For twenty-five years I have been severely afflicted with Hay Fever. While I was suffering intensely I was induced, through Mr. Tichenor's testimonial, to try Ely's Cream Balm. I can recommend Ely's Cream Balm to all Hay Fever sufferers, it being in my opinion, founded upon experience, a sure cure. I was afflicted with Hay Fever for twenty-five years, and never before found permanent relief. WEBSTER H. HASKINS, Marshfield, Vt. eod&w2w

ACROSS THE OCEAN IN SEVEN DAYS.

Short enough. But seven days of sea-sickness are seven days of horrible torment. How often must people be told that Perry Davis's Pain Killer will cure sea-sickness if taken in moderate doses, a few drops in a tumbler of water. For the lack of knowing this, or of acting on the knowledge, many people have suffered grievous horrors on Atlantic voyages. Don't suffer thus. It is altogether unnecessary. As to the cause of sea-sickness, let the doctors and learned men wrangle over it as much and as long as they please. It evidently has something to do with going to sea, for it has been noticed as a general thing, people who stay ashore are not afflicted with this unpleasant malady. As to the cure of sea-sickness—why, just take a bottle or two along with you as above advised, and you can enjoy your ocean voyage like an old sailor.

ARMY OFFICER'S TESTIMONY.

Captain Joseph L. Hayden, residing at No. 924 Forth Street, South Boston, Mass., formerly captain in the army, now with the Walworth Manufacturing Company, South Boston, writes, April 28, 1883: "While living in Cambridgeport my wife was afflicted with terrible pains in her back and sides, accompanied with great weakness and loss of appetite. She tried many so-called remedies without avail, growing rapidly worse, when her attention was called to Hunt's Remedy. She purchased a bottle from Lowell's drug store, in Cambridgeport, and after taking the first dose she began to feel easier, she could sleep well, and after continuing its use a short time the severe pains in her back and side entirely disappeared, and she is a well woman. Many of our relatives and friends have used Hunt's Remedy with the most gratifying results. I have recommended it many times, and as many times heard the same story. Hunt's Remedy is all that is claimed for it, and a real blessing to all afflicted with kidney or liver trouble."

MADE A MAN OF HIM.

Mr. C. O. Wheeler, No. 23 Austin Street, Cambridgeport, Mass., makes the following remarkable statement. On April 27, 1883, he writes as follows: "I have been troubled with kidney disease for nearly twenty years. Have suffered at times with terrible pains in my back and limbs. I used many medicines, but found nothing reached my case until I took Hunt's Remedy. I purchased a bottle of A. P. Gilson, 636 Tremont Street, Boston, and before I had used this one bottle I found relief, and continuing its use, my pains and weakness all disappeared, and I feel like a new man, with new life and vigor. Hunt's Remedy did wonders for me, and I have no hesitancy in recommending it to all afflicted with kidney or liver diseases, as I am positive that by its use they will find immediate relief. You may use this letter in any way you choose, so that the people may know of a sure medicine for the cure of all diseases of Kidneys and liver." eod&w1w

AN ARAB WEDDING.

STRANGE CEREMONIES ATTENDING THIS RARE OCCURRENCE.

From Belgravia.

Descriptions of Arab customs have so often been placed before the reading public that some apology is needed for again attempting to describe the ceremonies attending an Arab wedding. My excuse for attempting what has been so often done before must be that a wedding on a grand scale is an exceedingly rare occurrence among the Arabs of the Soudan; and, owing to the great variety of tribes represented at an Arab seaport, an unusually good opportunity was afforded of witnessing different tribal customs. The wedding I propose to describe took place in the present year of grace 1883, at Souakin. For the benefit of those whose geography was learned some years ago, let me state that Souakin is a town situated on the Red Sea, in nineteen degrees north latitude, and thirty-seven degrees east longitude, and is the chief port for the produce of the Soudan and the equatorial provinces of Egypt. The fathers of both bride and bridegroom, were leading merchants in the port—the father of the bridegroom being the owner of nearly two-thirds of the island on which Souakin is built. The festivities in connection with the wedding lasted for ten days, during which time open house was kept by the bridegroom's father, music, singing and dancing being kept up night after night until dawn announced the approach of day.

Each night some different tribe gave its own peculiar songs and dances in a large shumiana which had been erected for the purpose, and all Souakin flocked to participate in or be passive spectators of the scene. Professional singers and dancers had been brought over the sea from Jeddah to assist the local talent, and the intervals between the dances were filled up with Arab love songs. The favorite musical instrument of all Arabs is the drum, or tom-tom. This consists of a goard or a large earthen bowl with a skin stretched over it. The Souakinese have also a sort of double fingerlet, made of reeds, which makes a very shrill though not unpleasant sound; and the Hadramaut Arabs use a species of bagpipes which emit sounds productive of the most exquisite torture. The music, as a rule, is of a very monotonous character, though at times something like a quick march is struck up, which is always accompanied by the audience with a clapping of hands. Entertainments were given on successive nights by the Bishareen Arabs who inhabit the hill country between Souakin and the Nile on the southwest; by the Hadendoas who dwell south near the Abyssinian frontier; by the Hadramauts who hail from the Persian Gulf, and by professional dancing girls from Jeddah, who gave several performances of the Deluka, a dance very similar to the Indian nautch.

The national dance of the Bishareen Arabs is of a military character, as becomes the members of so warlike a tribe. The dancers form a circle standing about four paces apart, so as to give space for one brandishing of spears. They then move slowly round to the beating of the tum-tums singing the while, and now and again halting and raising their spears high above their heads, as if about to hurl them. Gradually the music quickens, and with it the steps of the dancers; the spears whirl round the heads of the dusky warriors at an astonishing rate, and it looks as though somebody would certainly be impaled. This continues till the dancers are tired out, when they retire, and their places are taken by another batch. They soon become up to time again, however, and about thirty of them will keep the dance going incessantly throughout the night. The dance of the Hadendoas is somewhat similar, except that they are armed with swords, and all carry round shields made of hippotamus hide. As they get excited in the dance they crouch and spring, and assume the most grotesque attitudes, clashing their swords, and making wonderful close shaves of cutting off each other's heads.

Oranges and Florida.

Better than Breezes and Blossoms —Under a New Flag.

Even the balmy air and orange groves of Florida fail to keep its people full of happiness and comfort. Art must help nature everywhere—in the tropics as among the pines of the North. "And, chief among the blessings which are adapted to all zones," writes Dr. J. G. Wallace, of Fort Dade, Fla., "is PARKER'S TONIC. It seems to have the world for a field, and most of the current diseases yield to its action. I have used it in the case of a delicate and dyspeptic young lady, with the most gratifying results. It seemed to accomplish with ease what the usual prescriptions and treatment for that miserable malady failed wholly to bring about. I am also glad to state that the Tonic has greatly relieved my personality of a chronic atonic condition of the stomach of long standing. It is the ideal purifier and invigorant."

Messrs. Hiscox & Co call especial attention to the fact that after April 30, 1883, the name and style of this preparation will be simply "Parker's Tonic." The word "Ginger" is dropped, for the reason that unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers by substituting inferior preparations under the name of Ginger; and as ginger is an unimportant flavoring ingredient in our Tonic, we are sure that our friends will agree with us in the propriety of the change. There will be no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers will be wrapped under the name of "PARKER'S GINGER TONIC," and have the genuine signature of Hiscox & Co. as at present on the bottom of outside wrapper.

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and I suffered discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANSON GRAY.
149 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

☞ All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. Mathews, 166 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in all her severe cases and many others within his knowledge.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

MRS. C. W. CHAMBERLIN

State and Ark St., Springfield, Mass.—Her Good, Kind Words will do Much for the Afflicted.

Mrs. Chamberlin is the wife of C. W. Chamberlin, an employee in the United States Armory at Springfield, Mass. She says: "Every Spring I have been, for some time past, more or less troubled with nervous debility and weakness. Some years I've been completely run down. My physician has recommended various Strengthening and Blood Medicines, but I never received any permanent benefit until I used Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. It was recommended to me by Mrs. Jos. Devonda, on State St. I think it a wonderful medicine to give true strength to a delicate person. I have recommended it to family after family among my acquaintances in Springfield, Lowell, and Ark St., and have heard from every one of good cheer wherever it has been placed. I have a sister, Mrs. Harmon, 20 Tremont St., Lowell, Mass., who was troubled with nervous prostration and female weakness, and spoke but in high terms of the strength and system she got by using Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. Her health was completely restored. I consider it a valuable medicine. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is used extensively among the Armory men here."

Yes, Sir!

A Boston minister once said "no woman could have pain as well as man. That is not so. The fact is generally the other way. Mrs. Edward Meyers of Rondout, N. Y., testified to the wonderful relief of the removal of her head by application of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. Mothers, beware of worms. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is now well and strong.

SKIN HUMORS

Wonderful Cure of a Lad 12 years old, who for 8 years, from the top of his head to his ankles, was One Mass of Scabs.

My son, a lad twelve years of age, was afflicted with that worst form of Eczema for a period of eight years. So virulent was it that from the top of his head to within a few inches of his ankles he was one mass of scabs, which refused to yield to any of the remedies that was attempted, every remedy that was suggested by friends was tried, but was tried in vain. Allopathy, Homeopathy, herbs, ointments, fresh water baths, flaxseed poultices, soaps, ointments, lotions, and everything that could be done to eradicate the disorder, but each one only aggravate it, and the child's life became a burden to him, and the expense of the various experiments was a constant drain on our resources.

My wife, reading the advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in one of the daily papers, resolved to make one more attempt at a cure. The disease was now encroaching upon his face, and seemed incurable.) I gave a reluctant consent to try the CUTICURA, and an inner view was sought with a famous lady physician, upon the face, who made a most thorough examination of the case, and pronounced any case without the least hesitation by the use of your CUTICURA REMEDIES. In ONE WEEK there was a marked change; in two weeks the scabs began to grow pale and along the outer edges and in time were gone they began to disappear entirely until at the present writing the only vestige is one small spot upon the forearm, scarcely visible and fast disappearing.

Thus after eight years of sickness and anxiety, we have the intense satisfaction of seeing the child's skin as fair and smooth as it was before this dreadful cutaneous disorder attacked him.

Sincerely yours,
CHAS. EATRE HINKLE.
